Ralf-Eckhard Türke

Governance

Systemic Foundation and Framework

Physica-Verlag
A Springer Company

Table of contents

1 Introduction 1

1.1 Perspectives on governance 2

1.1.1 The structure-oriented view 3

1.1.2 The actor-oriented view 4

1.1.3 Synthetic views 5

1.2 Motivation, objectives and research questions 8

1.3 Theories and research methodology 12

1.3.1 Making explicit the underlying Weltanschauung 14

1.3.2 Identifying and integrating relevant theories 15

1.3.3 Deriving instruments and tools for practice 19

1.3.4 Project experience and expert dialogue 19

1.3.5 Conducting a case study 20

1.4 Structure of the manuscript 21

2 Actors, images, and systems 23

2.1 Actors 23

2.2 Images 25

2.2.1 Individual percepts 28

2.2.2 Individual and social contexts 28

2.2.3 Individual and social intentions 32

2.2.4 Complexity of actor backgrounds 33

2.3 Systems 37

2.3.1 Boundaries 41

2.3.2 Elements and relations 42

3 Interaction 47

3.1 Mutual orientation 47

3.1.1 Coupling 47

3.1.2 Aspects of structure 62

3.2 Change or transformation capacity 66

3.2.1 Meaning 68
3.2.2 Referencing situations and issues 71
3.2.3 Triggering change 83
3.2.4 Method 89
3.3 Channel capacity 92
3.3.1 Relationships, tasks, and responsibilities 93
3.3.2 Sequences and time lags 97
3.3.3 Shapes of representation 100
3.3.4 Physical settings 107
3.3.5 Channel capacity 108
3.4 Transduction capacity 110
3.4.1 °System° boundaries 112
3.4.2 Logical boundaries 116
3.4.3 Actor boundaries 119
3.4.4 Transduction 120
3.5 Sustainability of control 121

4 Viability 127

4.1 Structural characteristics of °systems° 129
4.1.1 Invariance 130
4.1.2 Recursion 131
4.1.3 Organisational entities and actor involvement 133
4.1.4 Autonomy 134
4.1.5 Viability 136
4.2 Invariant °system° topics 138
4.3 One issues – °sub-system° implementation 140
4.3.1 One-One 142
4.4 Two topics – coordination 143
4.4.1 Two arena 145
4.4.2 Two-One 146
4.5 Three topics – operative governing 146
4.5.1 Three-Two 148
4.5.2 Three arena 149
4.5.3 Three-One 150
4.5.4 Three()-One* 153
4.6 Four topics – strategic governing 154
4.6.1 Four arena 155

4.6.2 Four-Environment 157
4.6.3 Four-Three 159
4.7 Five topics – normative governing 161
4.7.1 Five arena 163
4.7.2 Five-Four and Five-Three 168
4.7.3 Five-(Four-Three) 171
4.7.4 Five-One 172
4.8 Integrated framework 173
4.8.1 One issues 179
4.8.2 Two topics 180
4.8.3 Three topics 182
4.8.4 Four topics 185
4.8.5 Five topics 188

5 Case: Community 193

5.1 Purpose 193
5.2 Research methodology 194
5.2.1 Unit and focus of analysis 198
5.2.2 Sources of percepts 200
5.2.3 Structure of chapters 201

6 Governance of Hessian °communities° 203

6.1 Channel capacity: actor roles 209
6.1.1 Actors and settings 209
6.1.2 Systemic contributions 211
6.1.3 Compliance with systemic functions 225
6.1.4 Suggestions 237
6.2 Change or transformation capacity: methods 240
6.2.1 Systemic contributions 242
6.2.2 Compliance with systemic functions 251
6.2.3 Suggestions 270
6.3 Channel capacity: Sequences and time lags 273
6.3.1 Systemicity of budget reconciliation 274
6.3.2 Compliance with systemic functions 279
6.3.3 Suggestions 282
6.4 Excursus on Transduction 284
6.5 eGovernance with eMedia 285

7 Conclusion 291

Bibliography 299

Summary 313

About the Author 315